

in the picture:
"a state of being fully informed or noticed"
The Concise Oxford Dictionary

Time to get equal scope

About cerebral palsy.
For disabled people achieving equality.

Bill's Bathtime

Transcript

1.

'Tom it's time for bed'.

'Erm, mum don't you know the name's Bill. Bill the duck'.

'Tom, you are not a duck.'

'Yes I am. I have tail feathers.'

'Have I got tail feathers?'

'Of course you have, you're my mum.'

2.

'Bath's ready Bill'.

'Bill will you get out of the wardrobe and get in the bath'.

'Mum I will get my tail feathers wet'.

'Couldn't you take them off, Bill?'

'Don't be silly mum!'

'Couldn't you try'.

'No! No! No!'

'I take mine off when I get in the bath'.

'It's a pond, mum'.

3.

'Bill, how are we going to get you in the pond? We could play a game'.

'What game, mum?'

'What games do ducks play?'

'I have a friend called Waddle and we play shaking our tail feathers'.

4.

'Mum, you don't shake like Waddle. I will have to go to Ducktown and find him'.

'Bill, ask him would he like to get in the pond with you'.

5.

'Mum, I would like you to meet Waddle'.

'Nice to meet you, Waddle.' says mum 'Would you like to get in the pond with Bill?'

'Mum, could you look the other way, Waddle's shy'.

'Sorry, Bill'.

'No peeping Mum. Right Waddle, ready, steady, splash'.

6.

'Bill, Waddle, it's time for bed.'

'But mum, we haven't finished our juice and biscuits'.

'Sorry, time to go'.

'But mum, our feathers are still wet'..

'Oh no, they are not. Now up the stairs'.

'Come on, Waddle, we have to go to bed'.

7.

'Bill, are your feathers nice and smooth?'

'Yes mum, and Waddle's'.

'Bill, is Waddle in bed with you?'

'Yes so don't sit on him'.

'I'll just sit on the end of the bed so I don't squash anyone'.

8.

'Mum, could you get a picture of me when I was an egg?'

'You weren't an egg'.

'Correction! I am a duck'.

'Sorry Bill, can we have quiet time now'.

'Mum I am a big duck now and I will have to fly the nest and you can look at my picture of me as an egg and put it on the wall'.

'Goodnight Bill'.

'Goodnight Mum'.

9.

'Mum, have you tapped your head 7 times and shouted yahoo! So we can get up at 7 o'clock.'

'Yes Bill'.

'Can Waddle stay and not go back to Ducktown'

'Yes, Bill'.

'Are my feathers ruffled Mum?'

'No Bill, they're fine and so are Waddle's'.

'Mum have you tapped your head 7 times'.

'Yes, Bill, and shouted Yahoo'.

10.

'Goodnight Mum'.

'Goodnight Bill'.

'Goodnight Waddle'.

'Can we go to the pond tomorrow Mum'.

'Yes Bill'.

'Love you Mum'.

'Love you Bill'.

'Mum you forgot someone'.

'Sorry Waddle. I love you'.

'Waddle loves you too'.

'Goodnight Bill'.

'Goodnight Waddle'.

'Mum Goodnight!'

© Janice Rickards from a story by Beverley Fisher